JPMorgan Real Estate Partners, L.P. is the internal proprietary real estate principal investing vehicle of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (NYSE: JPM). The group consists of an experienced team of professionals with offices in New York, London and Los Angeles. JPMREP's mandate is to produce superior risk-adjusted returns through opportunistic equity and distressed debt investing in partnership with premier real estate companies. Typical investments range from three to seven years. JPMREP seeks to maintain a geographically diverse portfolio of real estate in core and secondary markets having strong economic and demographic fundamentals. The group's broad network of relationships, team-based analytical approach, flexible yet disciplined structure, and streamlined approval process allow it to capitalize on intrinsic real estate value both during times of capital market dislocation as well as stability.
